

Contributing Authors

Morgan Anderson is a doctoral student in Educational Policy Studies, with a concentration in Social Foundations of Education, at Georgia State University, Atlanta, Georgia, whose areas of interest are Philosophy of Education and corporate school reform. E-mail address: Manderson68@student.gsu.edu

Kelly M. Carrero, Ph.D., BCBA, is an assistant professor in the Psychology, Counseling, & Special Education Department at Texas A&M University-Commerce. She uses writing and research projects to serve as vehicles for social change, specifically for children and youth with behavioral health concerns, including autism spectrum disorders. E-mail address: kelly.carrero@tamuc.edu

Elizabeth A. Jara is a doctoral student in the Benerd School of Education at the University of the Pacific, Stockton, California. Currently, she teaches 7th -12th grade students with emotional disturbance in a special day class setting on a general education high school campus. E-mail address: e_jara@u.pacific.edu

Mandy E. Lusk has been a life-long special educator who currently serves as the program chair and assistant professor in special education at Clayton State University, Morrow, Georgia. Dr. Lusk's research agenda includes preparing teachers to positively educate culturally and linguistically diverse learners with challenging behaviors. E-mail address: MandyLusk@clayton.edu

Barbara Morgan-Fleming is a professor in the Department of Curriculum and Instruction in the College of Education at Texas Tech University, Lubbock, Texas. E-mail address: barbara.morgan-fleming@ttu.edu

Courtney K. Powell is a graduate student in the Department of Curriculum and Instruction of the College of Education at Texas Tech University, Lubbock, Texas. E-mail address: courtney.k.powell@ttu.edu

Donna Sayman is an associate professor of high-incidence special education at Wichita State University, Wichita, Kansas. Her research interest includes: social justice, gender, and race in special education and gendered occupations. E-mail address: donna.sayman@wichita.edu

Jennifer P. Stone, Ph.D., is an assistant professor in the Department of Curriculum and Instruction in the College of Education at Wichita State University, Wichita, Kansas, and the program chair of Early Childhood Unified Programs. Her research interests include inclusive environments for young children with exceptionalities, the perceptions of pre-service teachers working with children with exceptionalities, and strategies for teaching young children who have experienced trauma. E-mail address: jennifer.stone@wichita.edu